

VOLLEYBALL

- Albany defeated Cleveland State, 3-0, in the NCAA Women's Volleyball Championship, to become the first America East team to earn a win in the tournament.
- The Great Danes had earned the NCAA bid following their second-straight America East Championship and third in four years.
- Stony Brook's Jackie Ahlers, a unanimous selection as America East Player of the Year, was named to the American Volleyball Coaches Association All-America honorable mention team.

ANNUAL AWARD WINNERS

Player of the Year: Jackie Ahlers, Stony Brook

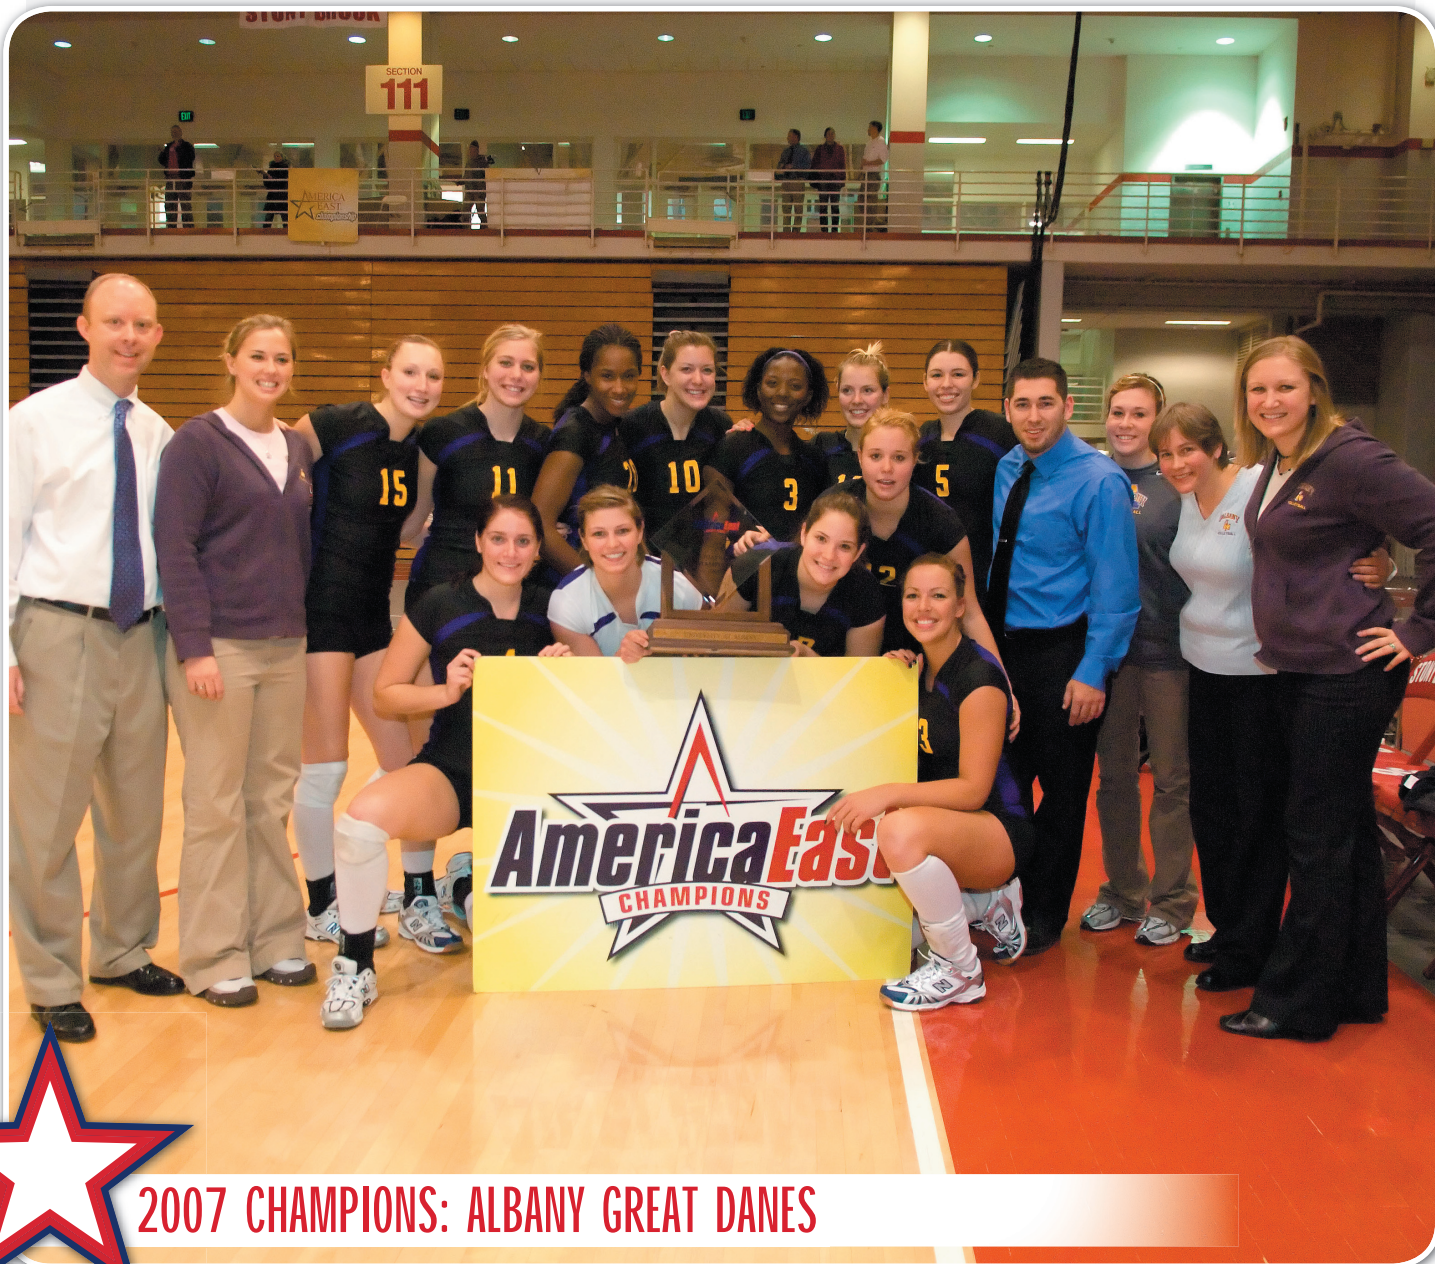

Setter of the Year: Kaitlyn Deutsch, Stony Brook

Defensive Specialist of the Year: Alyse Lahti, New Hampshire

Rookie of the Year: Amanda Cowdrey, Albany

Coach of the Year: Deborah Matejka-DesLauriers, Stony Brook

Scholar-Athlete: Jacki Kane, Binghamton

2007 CHAMPIONS: ALBANY GREAT DANES